INDEPENDENT COMPUTER SERVICES, INC. BECOMES INTEGRATED CORPORATE SOLUTIONS, INC.

Name change reflects ICS growth and position as provider of integrated business technology and communications

Florence, Alabama – Independent Computer Services, Inc. has changed its name to Integrated Corporate Solutions, Inc. to better reflect the company’s position and leadership in the evolving field of business technology and communications.

Integrated Corporate Solutions, Inc., with offices in Florence, Alabama and Jackson, Tennessee, serves the three-state area of Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee, working with industry clients as varied as government, education, banking, manufacturing and logistics.

Company founder and CEO Rick Sharp explains, “In just 20 years, business technology has completely changed. What once might have included a handful of desktop computers and telephones, in the 21st century has grown to include functions as diverse as intra-office computer systems, Internet, web and wireless technology, and voice and data transmission over a variety of networks. Understanding these systems, and making them work together seamlessly is a challenge for any business. Our name change reflects our broader focus in helping businesses understand and implement these technologies with information, sales, and service to ensure this challenge is met.”

Company Sales Manager and spokesman Mitch Dobbins adds, “In today’s environment, it is simply not enough to sell a network, telephone system or a copier and walk away. The integration of these and other resources is the key to maximum efficiency. Our name change reinforces our philosophy of learning a client’s business needs and then helping the client find the most time and cost efficient solution to meet those needs.”

Integrated Corporate Solutions, Inc. was begun in 1987 as Independent Computer Services, Inc., offering proprietary software and computer hardware. ICS continued its growth and widened its scope to include new business technologies as they emerged. Today, with a staff of 33 corporate and field representatives, ICS specializes in the provision, integration and repair of all business technology solutions including computer and data networks, telephone systems, communications and web services, and copier and printing equipment.
